for years i was a proud employee of general motors i loved my work as a journeyman electrician unfortunately my work was transformed into a horror story when i was assigned to pontiac assembly center there i was routinely bullied harassed and threatened by co workers and supervisors when i asked gm management for help they responded by aligning themselves with my persecutors i was threatened with physical violence stalked denied safety rights forced to do work others were unwilling to do and refused medical treatment i was removed from a coveted job by a superintendent who cited my ms condition blatantly ignoring rights afforded under ada i was called black nigger bitch there were pictures posted about the plant where i was depicted as roadkill kkk style nooses were hung in the plant a general foreman pressed his face close to mine and said i can t promise you you re going to live the next few minutes i next turned to the justice system for help when my case went before a circuit court judge he swiftly and willfully granted summary disposition judgments in gm s favor undaunted i began my own investigation in doing so i discovered that 108 pages of my deposition had disappeared i uncovered a letter from a gm executive threatening a union official who planned on helping me my lawyer lied to me about having filed an appeal where is the justice when a court of law condones this as acceptable behavior in a civilized society how can america hold itself out as a free and just society that other countries would choose to emulate should corporate entities such as gm be allowed to not only bend the law but to break the law how and why could such travesty have been allowed to occur

this book offers a revisionist look at the historiography of the republic of letters and the community of learning in early modern europe it suggests a new approach conceptualising the learned world as a web of imagined communities in which the members do not know all their peers these communities formed through distinct memory cultures and the representation of and identification with collective identities rethinking the republic of letters looks at early modern biographical dictionaries vitae eulogies letters travelogues and funerary monuments of early modern learned men to trace the re formation of these communities it thereby offers a novel perspective on early modern learned communities the many republics of letters
