this collection investigates the architecture of focus in linguistic theory from different theoretical perspectives research on focus and information structure in the last four decades has shown that the phenomenon of focus is highly complex the theoretical approaches manifold and the data highly sensitive the main emphasis has been placed on the integration of the notion of focus in generative grammar in recent years however the approaches to focus and information structure underwent a radical change in perspective the theoretical concept of focus its related terms and phenomena became the object of research along with it the research questions shifted instead of locating focus in the architecture of grammar linguists investigate the architecture of focus itself the central underlying idea of this collection is to document this change in perspective with the aim of isolating essential keystones and research areas in both the theoretical and empirical domain the book is structured accordingly following the introduction there are four main sections the general section discusses the theoretical foundations of focus within grammar the second section hosts papers which investigate the representation of focus and topic at the syntax pragmatics interface the third section discusses the phonological representation of focus and its relation to meaning the papers of the final section investigate different types of focus constructions in a variety languages the collection of papers on the architecture of focus its interpretation and representation mirror the establishment of the focus research field recent trends in the area of information structure have focused on the relation between information structure and discourse to seek an answer to the question how sentences are integrated into larger discourse units the present volume brings together syntacticians semanticists and psycholinguists who investigate the mechanisms behind this process the leading idea is based on two converging mechanisms on the one hand the form function relation is determined by bottom up processes such as syntax and semantics on the other hand it is determined by top down processes such as pragmatics which integrates insights from information structure theory the challenging aspect of this research is to find out how syntax semantics and pragmatics work together in the integration process at the sentence level syntax and information structure are responsible for making a sentence fit into the preceding context and the common ground at the pragmatic level qud models provide tools that show how discourse is structured and how sentences are optimally integrated into discourse the volume presents cutting edge research which investigates such processes in different areas of grammar such as ellipsis anaphora adverbials and interrogatives includes entries for maps and atlases
